Foreword

The statistical data in this report came primarily from information systems maintained by the Data Processing Division within the Bureau of Administrative Services. Information on Court Dispositions came from the various felony courts in Michigan.

Additional information on the production and content of the publication can be obtained by contacting the Public Information Office, Michigan Department of Corrections, P.O. Box 30003, Lansing, Michigan, 48909.

Acknowledgement

The editor gratefully acknowledges the contributions of the following persons in the preparation of the 1988 statistical presentation:

Year in Review — 1988

Crowding continued unabated in 1988; so much so that the State Corrections Commission authorized construction of a new 640-bed temporary prison near the Chippewa Temporary Facility, to be called the Hiawatha Temporary Facility. In addition, the Legislature appropriated funds to construct 120-bed camps in Gogebic, Houghton and Iron Counties; a new 120-bed housing unit at Camp Baraga; and a 120-bed special incarceration unit in Schoolcraft County.

The state's first Special Alternative Incarceration unit was opened at Camp Sauble in Mason County in March of 1988 and while it took several months to reach capacity, the program began running at capacity by the end of the year.

Another innovative program—the electronic monitoring or Tether Program—grew during 1988. By November of 1988, only 13 months after becoming fully operational statewide, there were 990 offenders on the electronic monitoring system. A total of 79 percent were halfway house participants on extended furlough, 20 percent probationers and less than 1 percent parolees.

Furloughs tightened in 1988. Effective December, 1988 prisoners in the halfway house system could not go on extended furloughs without being placed on an electronic monitoring device, and other limits were placed on prisoners leaving the institutional setting.

The department began, in 1988, to plan for conversion of the Ionia Maximum Correctional Facility to a high security "super max," based on the federal prison in Marion, Ohio. It is the belief of department officials that the system has to have a more secure facility in which to deal with very difficult-to-manage prisoners. Opening of the facility was delayed because of a dispute with the courts over a department plan to limit personal property of higher security level prisoners.

Continuing difficulties at the State Prison of Southern Michigan prompted the department to push forward more rapidly on a break-up of the very large prison. The State Corrections Commission authorized the separation of the Northside Complex from the rest of the prison. This unit was renamed the Charles Egeler Correctional Facility with its own separate administration, and Henry Grayson was named its first warden.

Other high-level appointments in 1988 included the appointment of Denise Quarles as deputy director in charge of the Bureau of Field Services. Quarles was warden of the Cotton Regional Correctional Facility and also had been head of the Riverside Correctional Facility and the Huron Valley Women's Facility. She succeeded Perry M. Johnson, who retired in the spring of 1988. Johnson had held the job of department director until he stepped down in 1984.

Gene Borgert, former warden of the Huron Valley Men's Facility and special assistant for prisoner affairs in the Director's Office, was named warden at the Cotton Regional Correctional Facility, to succeed Quarles.

William Overton, deputy warden at the Phoenix Correctional Facility, was chosen to head the Adrian Temporary Facility, which was scheduled to open in 1989.

The Commission named the regional prison under construction near Adrian after Gus Harrison, the state's first corrections director.

Meanwhile, increasing and negative attention was directed toward the department's ever-growing budget. Some legislators and other agency spokespersons were critical of the growth of the prison system at the expense of other vital state services, including Mental Health, Education and Social Services.

Indeed, the department's budget had soared from $146 million in 1978 to $614 million in 1988.

Finally, however, assaults against prison corrections officers and prisoners dropped in 1988. Assaults against officers totaled 487 during the first seven months of 1988, down 36 percent from the 753 assaults reported in the same period in 1987.

Court Dispositions

The A tables, charts and graphs illustrate data supplied to the department by the circuit courts in Michigan and the Detroit Recorder's Court. They show dispositions for all felony convictions handled by the courts in 1988.

Table A1 counts the number of people who received court sentences during the year. The dispositions are broken down into prison, probation only, jail and probation, and jail and/or fine.

In 1988, a total of 29,080 people were sentenced for felony crimes. Of those, 10,631, came to prison, about 1,565 more than in 1987. Of all persons sentenced for felonies in 1988, a total of 36.6% were sent to prison, compared with 34.3 in 1987.

The A1 table categorizes each person according to the most severe sentences s/he received even though a person may have been sentenced for several felony crimes. An individual is counted more than once if s/he received court sentences on separate occasions three months or more apart.

Pie charts A1a through A1e illustrate the composition of these sentenced offenders. The definitions of the groups accompany the charts. More details on these groups can be obtained from the Office of Public Information.

Group A constitutes 33% of the 29,080 persons convicted of felonies in 1988. Group A people have no prior jail term, juvenile probations only or one jail term.

Group B constitutes 12% and is composed of people with a juvenile record, multiple jail terms or one term of adult probation.

Group C constitutes 37% of the total and is made up of persons with multiple probation terms, probation violators or prior prison terms.

Group D, which constitutes 18%, is composed of institutional residents, escapees, and parole violators with new sentences.

A2 counts all court dispositions (cases) as opposed to people. By looking at this chart, you can tell how many cases of a certain crime got prison, probation or jail. One person may have received several sentences and some sentences involved several dispositions such as probation and jail.

A3 chart shows the breakdown for women only.

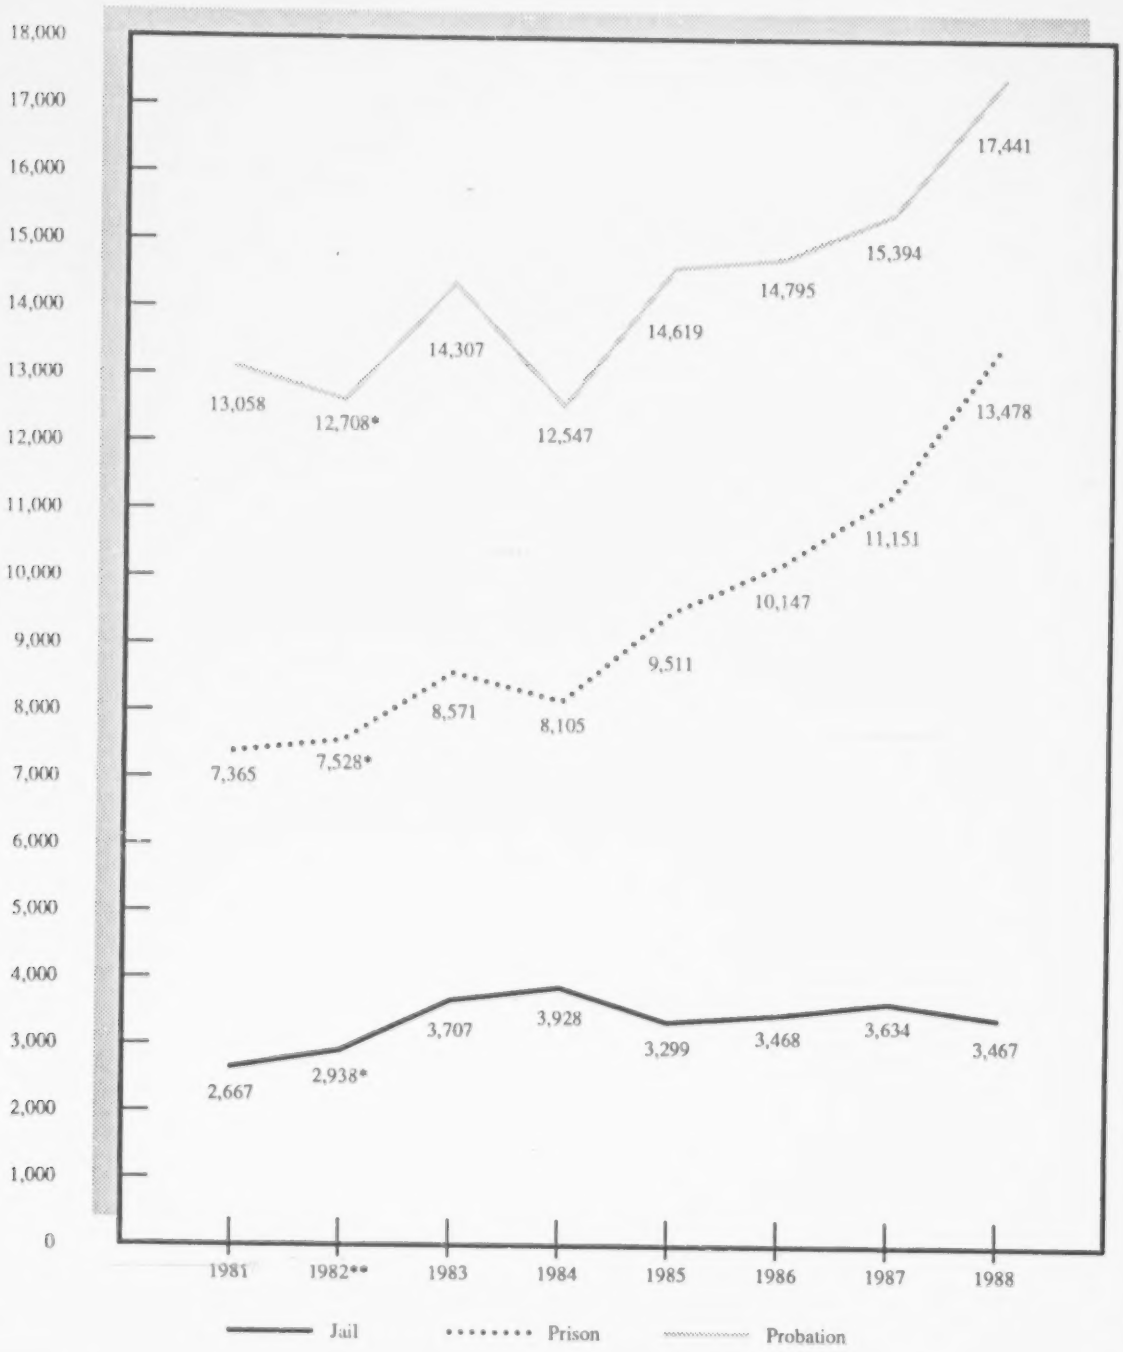
A3 Court Dispositions 1981-1988
7 Year Comparison



NOTE: Each conviction is counted; some persons will have multiple convictions.
*Includes HYTA Convictions

Prison Commitments

The B tables represent people to the fullest extent possible. They count the number of prison commitments for the year, reporting the longest sentences from each commitment. A person may, however, be committed more than once in a year with multiple sentences per commitment. In such cases that person would be counted each time s/he was committed. In 1988, there were commitments totaling 9,542 for non-attempts and 1,168 for attempts. In addition to listing the number of commitments by crime, the charts give the minimum sentences for each crime. Those minimum sentences falling between the various categories are grouped with the higher number.

The B2 table contains men and women commitments, but B3 lists only female commitments. The charts also contain an average minimum sentence for the various crimes.

This year Camp Sauble, the Special Alternative Incarceration program, is shown separately in this section. B2a lists commitments by minimum term distribution.

B1 compares prison commitments with reported crime and B1a compares prison population, the Michigan census and commitments.

Prisons and Prisoners

The following tables and charts present information on the state's prisons and prisoners. A map shows the location of all prisons and camps as of Dec. 31, 1988. Another section describes each institution.

The C tables count the controlling sentences for persons who were on count at institutions or in the halfway house program the last day of 1988. Temporary releases, furloughs, out-to-court and admissions to the Department of Mental Health are not counted nor are persons who are on facility count who did not have any active sentence record on the department's computer information system.

The C1 chart contains sentences for both men and women, but C2 contains only women. C1a contains information on Camp Sauble (the Special Alternative Incarceration program). Besides listing the number of persons serving sentences for the various crimes, the charts contain minimum sentences and averages. Sentences falling between the various categories are grouped into higher categories. Attempted offenses are given directly below the named offense and are not included in the non-attempt category.

The Facilities Summary chart (C4) shows prisoner movement during the year, including escapes, walkaways and deaths. C5 lists critical incidents for 1988.

C7 shows institutional programming and activities, and there are a variety of charts illustrating the efforts of Michigan State Industries.

Charts illustrating activities of the Bureau of Health Care Services are not included in this report because a separate statistical document is available from that bureau.

[a] Includes one corrections officer who had a heart attack on the job.
[b] These counts include at least 1 staff initiator and no more than 2 staff initiators.
[c] Monthly Summaries of these critical incidents were not submitted for the camps.

Beginning in 1984, all critical incidents were coded using the narrative describing the incident on the critical incident form. The coding structure and the method of counting was designed to continue past practice.

DEFINITIONS

Critical Incident. A situation or an event which involves or results in violence, death, injury, threat to institutional security, threat to inmate custody, physical plant damage, emergency or controversial situations or actions, criminal behavior, and use of force, firearms, and/or controversial prisons' control techniques. These events demand policy directed actions and are subject to supervisory and managerial review.

Serious Injury. An injury which requires medical treatment at a hospital as opposed to a medical examination to determine the need for treatment.

TYPES OF CRITICAL INCIDENTS

There are three categories of critical incidents. The first category requires a telephone report to the Deputy Director of the Bureau of Correctional Facilities and the immediate submission of the Critical Incident Individual Report Form (CSO 293) to the Bureau. The second category of incidents requires the submission of the Critical Incident Individual Report Form to the Bureau within three calendar days. The third category requires monthly reports (Monthly Summary, CSO 293C) of the number of each type of critical incident to the Bureau.

Category I

Death, serious injury, acts or threats of collective insubordination, demonstration, strike or riot, hostage taking incidents, escape or attempted escape of prisoners from levels of custody greater than minimum, including while in transit, use of chemical agents and physical restraints for the purpose of prisoner control, major physical plant failure, excessive use of force against prisoners, fire, explosion or natural disaster causing physical damage in excess of $500.

Category II

Nonserious injury, assaults, use of force, including forced use of medications, attempts at suicide injury, and any health impairing behavior by prisoners, drug overdoses which require treatment, discharge of firearms, irregularities or discrepancies involving public funds, sudden generally unexpected events or set of circumstances requiring immediate action, and/or actions which are subject to debate or dispute about what happened, how it happened, or how it was handled.

Category III

Vandalism causing property damage valued over $100, unauthorized possession or use of alcohol, prohibited substances or restricted drugs, extortion, smuggling of dangerous contraband, possession of unauthorized U.S. currency.

PRIORITIZING CONCURRENT EVENTS

A critical incident can involve multiple events. Approximately 36% of the 1988 incidents involved multiple incidents. Only the highest priority event occurring during an incident is counted. Hence critical incidents are counted using the following priority sequence: riot, attempted riot, homicide, suicide, natural death, attempted homicide, attempted suicide, assault of staff while resisting staff, assault of staff other than while resisting staff, assault of visitor or civilian, escape, attempted escape, use of mace, use of excessive force, use of any force, assault of prisoner, discharge of firearms, accidents, fires, embezzlement, other incidents (self injury, medical emergencies, power failures, etc.).

Parole Activity

The D charts show parole activity in 1988. Table D1 counts the last continuance (decision not to parole) or parole action taken on a person during the year. In 1988, 51% of all persons considered for parole during the year earned parole. Of those paroled, 856 were first-time offenders paroled on their minimum sentences or 24.4% of all persons paroled. Of all decisions made about the total group being considered for parole, the first-time offender paroled on his or her minimum made up 21%. Nearly half the persons considered were not paroled, including 1,462 first-time offenders. Paroles in 1988 totaled 4,306 or 51% of the total cases considered.

The D2 chart shows the results of four-year follow-ups of persons paroled in 1984. The offense groups shown on the left in D2 are those crimes from which the prisoner was paroled. The D2a chart shows the crimes for which the parolees were returned and compares them with the crime from which the person was paroled.

The table counts the original crime — see column labed "ORIG TOTL" — and contains subtotal counts for the group category of these crimes.

The table counts the crimes committed while on parole (PVNS).

To use the chart, find the crime title in the vertical column on the left. Following the title will be an alpha character in parenthesis. For example, homicide has the alpha character (A). The number beside this character shows the number of people paroled in 1983 from a homicide who were later returned for a new crime. Next, locate the character (A) across the top of the chart. (A) represents the crime of homicide and shows how many of the persons were returned to prison for the crime of homicide.

Bureau of Field Services

This section describes the activities of the Bureau of Field Services. This bureau supervises all felons on probation, parole or living in the community in a halfway house or resident home.

The supervision is divided into three regions which are shown on the map in this section.

The central office prepares budgets, sets policies and handles matters that cannot be taken care of locally such as the Interstate Compact and the communications concerning absconders picked up in other states.

Parole violations which result in return to prison are shown in this section.

Personnel and funds distribution illustrate the total staff in field supervision, community corrections centers and central office administration. It also describes, through a pie chart, the dollars spent during the 1987-88 fiscal year on these same bureau sections. The work unit distribution charts show how the work time of the employees of this bureau is divided into supervision and investigation.

Supervision is further divided into type and shows the probation supervision accounts for 76% of all supervision activities.

Investigations account for 35.4% of the work units. Of all investigations, those done for the pre-sentence reports clearly predominate.

The bureau measures workloads by assigning unit values to the various tasks. A completed presentence investigation equals five units and each client supervised ranges from 2 units to 0.1 unit.

This section also contains a chart illustrating funding for Community Alternative Program in the 1988-89 fiscal year.

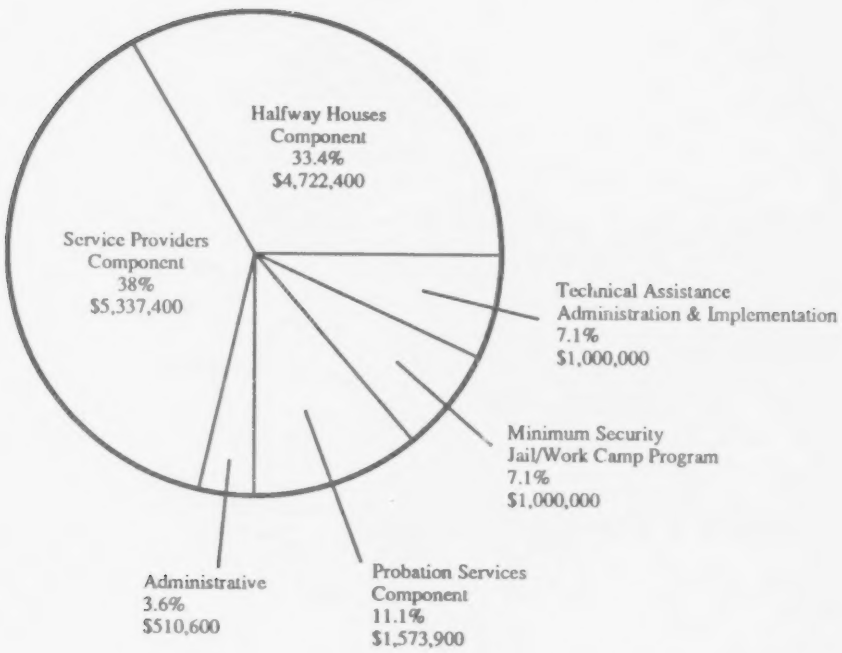
E7 Community Alternative Program Funding 1988/89 Fiscal Year



TOTAL 1988/89 FY BUDGET: $14,144,300

Community Programs

During the 1987-88 fiscal year, Community Programs continued its growth from the previous year with new highs and lows set in several categories. The average daily count (F1) grew by 197.8 for the year, an increase of 9 per cent. At year's end, it stood at 2,170.5, the highest in the period since the 1983-84 fiscal year.

Both institutional and community programs per diem costs increased over the previous fiscal year, though the rate of increase for community programs (8.5%) was less than that of the institutions (9.6%).

Terminations (F2) showed another drop in the parole/discharge category from 49.1% in 1987 to 42% in 1988. This is probably attributable in large part to a stricter reclassification process which resulted in disciplinary returns continuing to rise reaching an all-time high of 1,081. However, the increased returns may have had some impact on the new felony rate (excluding escapes) which dropped to 107, the lowest since 1977.

Prisoner earnings (F4) increased from $6.25 million to $7.52 million, the highest in the program's history.

Chart F6 shows escapes versus apprehensions by the Absconder Recovery Unit, and F7 illustrates results of monthly drug testing.

Department Employees

The H charts illustrate information about department employees. H1 shows the total as of December, 1988. A breakdown of the number of corrections officers, female corrections officers, ex-offender employees and minority employees is given. H1a is corrections officers for each institution and field services. In H1b, the number of female corrections officers increased from 235 in 1978 to 1,338 at the end of 1988.

New hires are shown in H2. A total of 1,596 persons were hired in 1988 and most were corrections officers.

The H3 and H3a charts show the department's progress in reaching its affirmative action goals in 1988.

H4 shows the number of professionals and administrative personnel in the department and H5 and H6 illustrate the increase in total female employees and minorities over the years.
